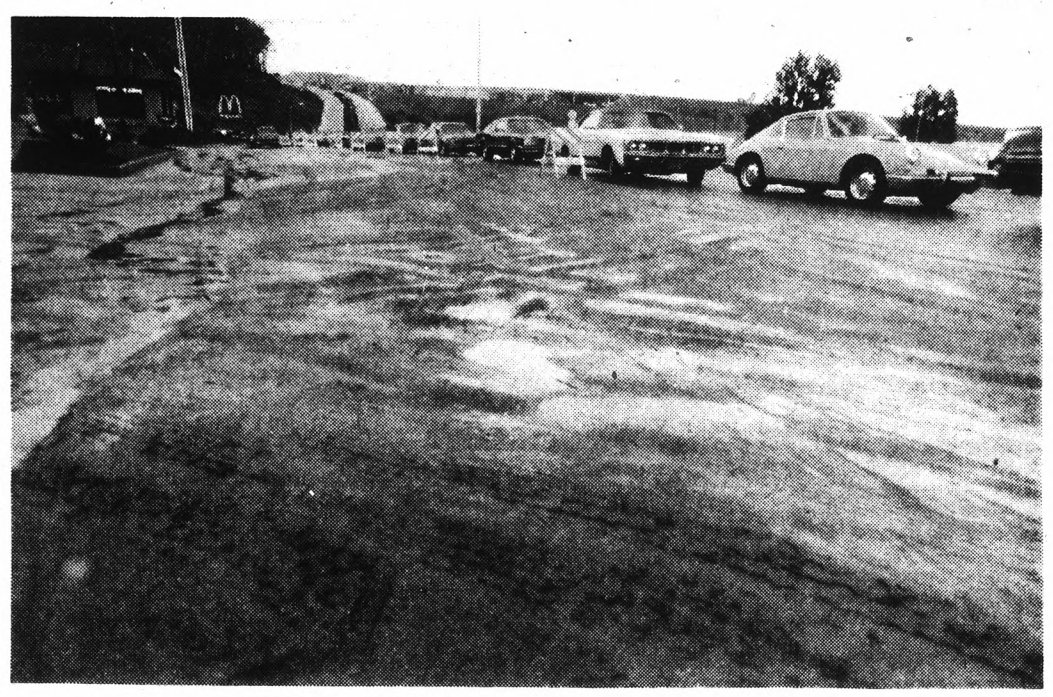
And Then . . .

(Dave Dornias Photos)

Rains triggered heavy mud runoff from this steep slope behind the new Alto Serramonte shopping area on Gellert Boulevard last week. Silt running across roadways and parking lots caused disruption of traffic along streets, including Serramonte Boulevard (shown, right). Cleanup crews last week carted off several truckloads of silt. Landscaping of the slope may stop erosion, city manager David Rowe said.

. . . the Rains Came



More Washouts Coming?

Heavy rains that lashed the state early last week triggered muddy runoffs from a steeply graded hill behind the new Alto Serramonte shopping area and brought traffic along parts of Serramonte Boulevard to a halt.

Clean-up crews, paid for by the developer of the site, trucked off loads of silt last week that had washed off the hillside onto the roadway and parking lots of shops.

Some city officials expressed fears another heavy rain might cause a substantial washout in the hill's face.

On the top of the hill behind the row of stores, is the Chinese Cemetery.

If a major slide develops on the face, it could affect the cemetery operation, the officials venture.

Developers of Alto Serramonte are Jack and Ron Fierman. Jack Fierman lives in Philadelphia and his brother in Marin County.

The company has offices in Sausalito.

There are presently two bonds to cover two grading permits issued to the limited partnership company — both in the amount of $12,500.

The stores are owned by Merritt-Sher Co. of Los Angeles.

Daly City City Manager David Rowe said he had been informed the developer will soon landscape the slope.

DC, Pacifica Chip in for Garbage Station Site Study

By JANET PARKER

A $7,000 joint study to determine the most economically feasible site for a garbage transfer was approved Monday by the city councils of Pacifica and Daly City.

At the same time, Pacifica residents protesting a proposed location of the station in their neighborhood, were told by the Pacifica City Council that they should be admitted to all meetings between the two cities.

The council even agreed to pay any additional costs the consulting firm performing the study might require as a result of residents being included in the joint sessions.

"I am unwilling to attend meetings where citizens are not allowed to attend," said Councilman Mark Savage.

Savage, Councilman Nick Gust and City Manager Don Weidner are Pacifica's representatives in the joint talks with Daly City.

Daly City will pay two thirds, $4,666, and Pacifica one third, $2,334, of the cost of the report by Easley and Brassy Corp. of San Francisco.

The study is to be completed in seven weeks and will cover the five sites the committee has chosen.

Both cities favor the existing Mussel Rock dumpsite for the station. The Water Quality Control Board has ordered the dump to be shut down by Aug. 15.

However, alternative sites in case the Coastal Commission rejects the first one are the Denman Ranch at San Pedro Point, Rockaway Quarry off Highway One, an area off the Junipero Serra Boulevard near Colma, and the vacant Edgemar School site in Pacifica.

The study will evaluate the capital cost, site improvement cost, haul costs, transfer cost, and operating and maintenance costs associated with each site.

A station will allow the two cities to compact garbage for hauling to the nearest available dumpsite when Mussel Rock dumpsite for the station. The Water Quality Control Board has ordered the dump to be shut-down by Aug. 15.

However, alternative sites in case the Coastal Commission rejects the first one are the Denman Ranch at San Pedro Point, Rockaway Quarry off Highway One, an area off the Junipero Serra Boulevard near Colma, and the vacant Edgemar School site in Pacifica.

A station will allow the two cities to compact garbage for hauling to the nearest available dumpsite when Mussell Rock closes.

Edgemar resident Bill Waltersheid questioned the agreement with the consultant and the proposed method of the study.

Residents of that neighborhood have been protesting since they learned last month that the vacant school site is being considered for a transfer station.

Watersheid said the consultant's written proposal is loaded with references to economics and not one reference to "the devaluation of an entire neighborhood."

"We are skeptical of a report that is so slanted against human values," Waltersheid said. He also protested that Daly City City Manager David Rowe is named as the sole project leader with no reference to Weidner.

Savage said Rowe was named simply because it is easier for the consultant to work with one project manager and because the Mussel Rock dumpsite in Daly City is the first choice.

"In all probability, it is going to be built in Daly City," Savage said.

The Edgemar residents have formed a group called "Alert" and showed up at two of the joint committee meetings before representatives were admitted.

Residents Charles Daniels said the Alert members recently devised a name for the acronym to represent — "Alternatives to Locating in Edgemar a Rubbish Transfer."

The residents have asked Pacifica for assurance they will be admitted into future meetings.

They have claimed that Daly City representatives to the meetings have not desired their inclusion.

"I don't think . . . people in Daly City get particularly excited about things like people in Pacifica do," Councilman Stan Farber said. Another Edgemar resident, Terry Weld, asked when the next meeting will be held and how residents may apply to attend.

"The best way is to have it in Pacifica," Farber said.

Councilman Sidney Lorvan said any resident interested in any of the proposed sites should be permitted to attend the joint meetings.

Wounded, Hospitalized, Finally He's Rewarded

Bill Zachry and Councilman Victor Kyriakis

When he saw the two girls fighting, recreation leader Bill Zachry stepped between them and tried to persuade them to stop the battle.

That was on Nov. 8, 1976.

For his efforts, Zachry was stabbed in the abdomen by an unknown male assailant who decided the city worker was "butting in."

After surgery and weeks of recovery, Zachry is now able to move about.

Monday, the city council of Daly City honored Zachry with a resolution attesting to his dedication to duty and his "unselfish disregard for his own personal safety" in trying to settle the dispute that ended in his own stabbing.

Too often, the council's resolution read, people today say, "it is none of my business and I do no not want to get involved."

Zachry did not take this attitude — he got involved.

Funeral Friday for Hells Angel

Cocaine Cache Found

North San Mateo County police will "cover" the funeral of slain Hell's Angels' Motorcycle Club president Harry Flamburis, but no special precautions will be taken.

This is the consensus of police chiefs from the two principal cities involved in the funeral — Daly City and Colma — now scheduled for Friday noon.

Flamburis was killed in cold blood along with his girl friend at the couple's Abbott Street home in Daly City Thursday.

Dannett Barret, 20, was shot five times in the head with a .22-calibet handgun.

Flamburis was shot twice in the head with the same gun, the San Mateo County Coroner informed police this week.

Both were found fully clothed, bound hand and foot with adhesive type tape and their mouths and eyes taped shut.

Ms. Barret was discovered in a front bedroom. Flamburis, a longshoreman, was lying in a pool of blood in the living room of the modest home.

Friday afternoon, Daly City police found a large (six by four foot) floor safe hidden in a small room off the garage.

On forcing the safe open, police said they found almost a pound of cocaine with a street value of $20,000, several automatic pistols and a small quantity of other drugs.

Friday at noon several hundred motorcyclists are expected to attend services for Flamburis at the Daphne Mortuary Chapel, One Church Street, San Francisco.

Last week some unidentified members of the gang attempted to claim their slain leader's body from the Coroner's Office, it was learned.

The claim was rejected.

Deputy Coroner Jim Wade said Tuesday that the body was turned over to Flamburis' brother, David, of Monte Diablo Street in San Mateo that morning.

Daphne Mortuary has staged three other funerals for the Hell's Angels, a spokesman said.

Flamburis is survived by his brother, David, and three children from previous marriages: Harry, Annamaria and Dana May.

Meanwhile, police are busy tracking down clues in the case, according to Daly City Det. Jim Mendiara.

"We have some good leads. But I'm not at liberty to discuss them at this time," Mendiara said.

A Daly City House Divided — Can Smoke

By FRANK LaPIERRE

You may not smoke on the left.

But if you are seated on the right, or in the center, you may smoke.

For those who are seated above the rail — persons on the council bench and at the staff table below — smoking at all times is permitted.

Persons who do not smoke, but duty demands their presence at either the council or staff table, will inhale tobacco fumes whether they like it or not.

This was all decided by the City Council of Daly City at Monday's regular meeting.

The monumental decision came after seconds of agonizing by the board majority — which smokes.

Except for City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf, the staff — City Manager David Rowe, City Attorney Al Polonsky, City Engineer David Macabee, City Redevelopment Planner Don Ciucci, City Community Development Department Head Don Fleming — all smoke.

The press table — where news media gather to jot down barely readable notes — is considered in a "grey area."

Frank LaPierre blames a host of ills on the cigarette and its cousins. His column is on page 13.

Parochial Schools—Bucking the Decline

By JANET PARKER

Some parents willingly pay twice for their children's education — and they're doing it in increasing numbers.

For the first time, San Mateo County's parochial schools are steadily gaining enrollment while public schools are struggling for students.

Despite the increasing tax burden for the support of public education, many parents are investing an additional $300 to $800 in tuition to enroll their children in the parochial schools of this county.

It's a phenomenon that's causing many public school educators to give parochial schools today more than a passing glance.

According to the county Department of Education, the number of public school students in kindergarten to 12th grade dropped from 129,349 in 1975-76 to 103,343 in 1976-77.

But the Roman Catholic Archdiocese in San Francisco reports the opposite trend in the parochial schools. There are 6,805 elementary and 2,100 secondary parochial school students this year — compared to 6,653 and 1,982 last year. Not a drastic increase but not a decline, either.

It's good news for many of the parochial schools that were faced with the possibility of closing their doors five years ago.

It's bad news for the public schools that are losing so many students, they risk shutting down campuses and laying off teachers.

"I don't think it's a case of flight from the public schools," said Father Michael Mitchell of the Archdiocese in San Francisco. "It's a case of holding our own in a market we always had."

Just as public education has changed in the last decade, so has private education, Father Mitchell said. No institution, he said, changes gracefully and change for parochial schools has meant increased tuition and more costly lay staff.

"Our clients have decided they can bear the costs and that lay people can teach religious education," Father Mitchell said.

At least one public school board in the county, South San Francisco Unified, has faced the fact that something is luring students from the public classrooms to the religious schools.

The district's enrollment consultant, Dr. Edward LaFranchi, recently told the South San Francisco Board of Trustees that the 22 schools lost 120 students to parochial schools this year — students that he had projected would attend public schools.

Total enrollment in the four South San Francisco parochial elementary schools increased from 792 in 1974-75 to 896 in 1976-77. La Franchi said it's likely many more students were lost to the county's Catholic high schools.

LaFranchi labeled it one of the major reasons his enrollment projection for the dustrict this year was 286 students too high.

Better education? A rebellion against public schools? A return to the moralistic and structured atmosphere of religious schools?

Not everyone in the parochial schools agrees it's as simple a matter as Father Mitchell says.

Principals, educators and parents agree on only one thing — that there are many reasons that the parochial schools are gaining momentum.

Joyce Harnett of South San Francisco has watched closely as the parochial schools have come of age since 1970. She is a member of the executive committee for the Catholic National Association of Boards of Education.

"I for one in this county do not say public schools are any better or any worse than they were 10 years ago," Mrs. Harnett said. She believes parents are turning to public schools for other reasons.

Last year was the first year that the county Association of Boards of Education for the parochial schools noticed the upward enrollment trend, Mrs. Harnett said.

As president of the county group at that time, she conducted a survey of parents who had transferred their children from public to parochial schools.

Of the 178 responses, 50 or 28.1 per cent said they based the transfer on the need for religious instruction.

However, dissatisfaction with public schools was the reason given by 17.4 per cent. Another 10.7 per cent said their decision was made simply because they had always intended to enroll their children in Catholic school.

Other major reasons included parochial school discipline, family tradition to attend Catholic schools and better education than in public schools — each receiving 7.3 per cent of the ballot.

"Over the last 10 years, I've always heard if you raise tuition, you will lose enrollment," Mrs. Harnett said. "I never believed that."

Parochial and other private schools across the country are proving that theory is simply not true, she said.

For example, enrollment at Serra High School in San Mateo, a college prep Catholic school for boys, increased more than 20 per cent since 1975-76, from 700 to 817 this year — even though tuition went up from $780 to $840 a student. Tuition in 1972 was only $480.

A year ago, Serra hired a part-time development director strictly to promote Serra's public image.

"Part of it is an all-out effort to encourage students to attend our school," Father Schipper said. The new director — much in the style of colleges and universities — visits traditional public and private feeder schools — enticing eighth graders to apply at Serra. Nearly 700 elementary students attended a recent Serra drama production as a result of the recruitment effort.

The Archdiocese officials are reluctant to say that the Catholic schools are waging an all-out recruitment program.

"Recruitment carries evil connotations," Father Mitchell said. He said there have been accusations for many years that the Catholic boys schools milk off the cream of the athletic crop to enroll at their schools through scholarships.

Many county parochial elementary schools are reporting that they have waiting lists this year.

Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Daly City has 296 students this year, with 20 families on a waiting list to enroll their children.

St. Robert's in San Bruno has 313 students on its attendance sheets — with room for only seven more students to reach the maximum class size of 40.

"Our enrollment has been skyrocketing," said Brother Michael, principal of All Souls School in South San Francisco. Since 1974-75, enrollment has increased from 226 to 285 students.

Six years ago, that campus also nearly closed. Enrollment had dropped to 223 students and All Souls' financial situation was desperate. There were only eight students in the first grade, a class that serves as a barometer for a school's future.

As had occurred with many other schools in the county, the decreasing number of women entering the convent meant there were fewer nuns in the school. All Souls was the first parochial school on the Peninsula to revert to an all-lay staff.

"It hit our parents quite hard," the principal said. "Our budget is quite high. There was a period when we weren't sure we could make it go." Now the first grade and five other grades are filled.

Enrollment at St. Dunstan's in San Bruno has increased from 265 last year to 293 this year. When the school lost the Sisters of Notre Dame in 1971, enrollment was severely affected.

"Families began to loose heart when the sisters withdrew," Sister Eda Ryah, the current principal, said. However, another order, the Sisters of Mercy from Ireland, stepped in and enrollment has been increasing since.

Sister Ann Xavier at Good Shepherd School in Pacifica said 262 students are enrolled compared to 248 last year. There are waiting lists for all but the fourth and eighth grades.

"More and more people are recognizing what Catholic schools are doing."

An offshoot of declining public school enrollment is a better teaching staff in the parochial schools, says Jim Maxwell of San Mateo. Maxwell is the current president of the county school board association.

The taxpayer-supported schools are forced to release many of their young teachers who are farther down the seniority line. Many of those young, energetic teachers, he said, are finding jobs in the parochial schools. The religious schools, he said, are getting the pick of the crop.

But most everyone agrees there's a renewed interest in the morality and religious background that's naturally part of every parochial classroom.

Ten years ago, Mrs. Harnett said, there was a feeling that religious education could best be taught in Saturday and after-school classes.

So, parents stopped doling out hundreds of dollars in tuition and instead sent their children to the public classes.

Now, she said, parents are having a change of heart.

"Religion in the Catholic schools is there all day," Mrs. Harnett said. The children attend Mass together, pray together, and write their own liturgies together.

Father Mitchell of the Archdiocese says when the schools lost most of their religious staff, parents turned away. They felt that a Catholic school without nuns must not be a valid Catholic school.

Lay staffs, however, have proven capable of communicating religious values, he said. Parents who pulled their children out of the parochial schools four years ago are signing them up again.

"Folks are after value-centered education. That's the name of the game," he said.

First Taste of Council

It was Walter Birkelo's introduction to the South San Francisco City Council in action following his appointment as city manager three weeks ago.

The council meetings have often been marked by angry exchanges and bitter clashes. The city has gone through four city managers since 1970.

First on Wednesday night, the council split down the middle (Mayor Leo Padreddii was absent) in a 2-2 vote concerning temporary positions under a Public Works Employment Act grant.

Then, Assistant City Manager Mike Wilson inadvertently evoked laughter from the audience and the council when he referred to a program that occurred "under the regime of Dreisbach." Former City Manager Gale Dreisbach resigned in 1974 when his firing appeared imminent.

Finally, the meeting ended with Councilman Dick Battaglia reading a statement prepared by his attorney referring to statements made by another councilman in December — statements Battaglia said he believes were defamatory.

Councilman Terry Mirri broke the icy air.

"Welcome to South San Francisco," Mirri said to the new city manager.

Appraisal Slated For Mount Site

The hiring of an appraiser to determine the value of the 130-acre Juncus Ravine area of San Bruno Mountain as part of the proposed San Bruno Mountain Park was authorized Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The $8,400 contract for the appraisal was awarded to the San Francisco firm of Fullerton-Mills, Inc., on the recommendation of County General Services Director Henry R. Tarratt.

In his recommendation, Tarratt said the "sensitivity and comprehensiveness of the appraisal problem requires the best qualified appraiser available."

Tarratt also reported that the appraisal will require the services of an engineering consultant, at an estimated cost range of $5,000 to $7,500.

Tarratt said the hiring of the engineering consultant was not recommended Tuesday because he feels the appraisal firm, as well as the County Department of Public Works, should participate in the selection procedure.

Trio Held in Drug Case

County Sheriff investigators and local police raided two San Bruno homes last Tuesday, arresting two males and a female on drug charges.

The arrests culminated a three-months investigation by San Bruno Police and the County Sheriff's Special Investigation Unit, and according to Lt. Hugh Fraser, eliminated one of the primary sources of heroin in the city.

Taken into custoday were, James Edward Chirolo, 24, of 219 San Benito Ave; Roberta Amelia Hansen, 19, also of 219 San Benito; and Michael Richard Gettle, 25 of 184 Linden Ave.

Fraser said they purchased $1,500 worth of drugs.

Fraser said Chirolo was due to be arraigned this morning at the South San Francisco Municipal Court.

Crowd Shows Concern on Site Sale

An orderly crowd of Pacifica parents and their children sat quietly at a school board meeting Thursday night while their spokesman asked trustees to carefully consider the proposed sale of an unused school site to the city for a garbage transfer station.

Some 75 persons from the Edgemar neighborhood calling themselves "Alert" attended the Laguna Salada Union School District meeting to show that they are concerned about the possible sale.

Both Pacifica and Daly City are interested in the district's vacant 10½ acre Edgemar School site as one of five possible locations for a transfer station.

Although the two cities have listed the Mussel Rock dump site as the best location for a transfer station, the Edgemar site and three others have been named as alternatives in case the Coastal Commission does not approve the first choice.

The two cities must have a transfer station by Aug. 15, when the Water Quality Control Board is expected to shut down the dump. A transfer station city officials have said, will allow the two cities to compress their garbage for easier to transport to the nearest dump.

The Edgemar residents have made it clear to the City Council and now the school trustees that they don't want a transfer station in their neighborhood, even though Pacifica officials have said it won't be a health menace or an eyesore.

But LSSD Board Chairman Wilbur Frye told the Edgemar residents Thursday that it's a matter of economics for the school district.

Frye explained that more than five years ago, when the district was rapidly growing, the board purchased the Edgemar property in anticipation of future needs.

However, declining enrollment made the site surplus and there's little likelihood of its development.

In the meantime, Frye said, the state expects the school district to be paying fees — similar to property taxes — on those vacant sites including those in FAIRWAY Park, Pedro Valley Site and FAIRMONT No. 3.

Frye said the district has received a one-year waiver on the fees from the state because the property has been in the Coastal zone and has been difficult to sell.

However, as of Jan. 1, the Edgemar site no longer falls within the coastal boundary. Frye said it is questionable that the state will allow another exemption from the fees.

Supt. Jim Brien said the district is consulting with the EMA Group, land planners, to determine the best possible use for the vacant property.

The property, he said, will be sold to the highest bidder — whether it's the city or a private developer.

Brien noted that a letter to the district from Pacifica Mayor Janice Fulford lists the value of the site of $22,000.

The site, he said never has been offered at that price. In fact, one appraisal listed the value from $246,000 to $276,000, he said.

Tte city, he said, obviously picked the lowest appraisal that had been received.

The Edgemar spokesman, Christopher Weld, said the district should carefully consider whether to sell the land at all.

"The public interest's should be foremost in the board's mind," Weld said. The mayor's letter to the district said the city's intended use is for a corporation yard. However, Weld pointed out that it's quite clear the city also wants that land for the transfer station.

If you are wondering around looking for the Westlake Senior Citizens Club today be forewarned that they are not meeting in the Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall this month or next!

Mrs. Ernestine Vetter, publicity chairwoman for the club, is concerned that not everyone will be aware of the fact that the club is meeting in the Villa Fontana club room in January and February.

Mrs. Millie Machens, the club president, has arranged for the change of meeting site. The Villa Fontana is located at the corner of East Market Street and Mission Street.

THE DALY CITY Friends of the Gifted will host a wine tasting and arts and crafts exhibit to benefit the Mentally Gifted Minors program tomorrow evening in Hope Lutheran Church, according to Mrs. Armando Telles, the co-chairwoman of the event.

The community is invited to help support this program of educational enrichment by helping to make available funds for the purchase of materials and equipment.

Mrs. Telles emphasized that there will be no admission charge and that the arts and crafts displayed will not be sold.

Funds will be obtained solely through donations made by people attending the party. To encourage donations the committee has obtained some lovely gifts which will be awarded during the course of the evening.

Mrs. Telles and Mrs. Kurt Poehleman are co-chairing the benefit which will begin at 7 p.m. in the parish hall, located at 55 San Fernando Way, Daly City.

Added support for the MGM program will be coming from the Daly City Host Lions Club, which has pledged a portion of this year's Youth and Community Activities Fund to MGM.

Of further encouragement to the Friends of the Mentally Gifted Minors is the word that John Mortensen, candidate for the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of trustees, is planning to attend the benefit to become better acquainted with the people and projects that make up the program.

"Heart of Fashion" is the theme that has been chosen for the Westlake Catholic Women's annual fashion show and luncheon.

Mrs. Harry Lindner and Mrs. Robert Drucker are the chairwomen of this event in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, Feb. 5.

Members of the fashion show committee include, Mrs. Joseph Potter and Mrs. Ted Carey, investments; Mrs. John Loughran and Mrs. Robert Reich, reservations; Mrs. Henry Soldati and Mrs. James Rainey, decorations; Mrs. Joseph Vollert and Mrs. Richard Hutchinson, hostesses; Mrs. Robert Brizuela and Mr. Joseph Rubino, door prizes; Mrs. Roger Ferrari and Mrs. David Gallagher, programs; Mrs. Byron Davenport and Mrs. Robert Markey, models; Mrs. George San Pietro, publicity; Mrs. Michael Cooney, committee secretary and Mrs. Peter Balestrieri, president of the Westlake Catholic Women.

Mrs. San Pietro announced that the tickets will go on sale Jan. 22 in the Our Lady of Mercy Church hall. Tickets will cost $8 a person. No telephone reservations will be accepted.

For more information about the tickets, call the reservations chairwomen, Mrs. John Loughran or Mrs. Robert Reich.

GIRL SCOUTS will begin their annual cookie sale on Friday! Yummy cookies in five different varieties will be sold by Girl Scouts of all ages during the 16-day fund raising effort.

Bar Mitzvah Planned At Daly City Temple

On Saturday at 10 a.m., Marc Greendorfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Greendorfer, will observe his Bar-Mitzvah. Services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

Marc, who has reached maturity in the eyes of the synagogue, can now take his place as an adult member of the congregation. He will read blessing, prayers, and chant the Haftorah, an accompanying work to the Torah readings.

Marking this Special day in his life, Marc will be presented with a certificate of Bar Mitzvah by Rabbi Ira Book.

NEW PLAYGROUND

Members of the Lions Club and the Jefferson Elementary School Board team up to start work on a new playground near St. Francis Shopping Center. At first the playground will have Little League, soccer and football fields, but it is anticipated later that more equipment will be added. The property was donated by the school and the Lions are adding all the equipment. Turning a shovel at groundbreaking are (left to right) JESD board member David Parker, Asst. Supt. John Trompeter, Board President Beverly Forrester, Lion Chuck Traversy, Sam Casperson, who is the contractor, and Lions Charlie Ohman and Rino Ceccato. (Dave Dornlas Photo)

Scout Cookies For Sale

The year's first meeting of the Daly City Girl Scout Association is scheduled for Jan. 18 at 7:30 p.m. at Hope Lutheran Church under the chairmanship of Mary Ann Dale.

Friday is "Cookie Day" for the Daly City Girl Scout Association as Jan. 14 is the first day of the 1977 Girl Scout cookie sale.

Cookies are priced at $1.25 per box or $15 per case and all profits stay within the service area of the girl selling the tasty cookies.

Five kinds of cookies are offered this year. The mint is a minty coated crunchy wafer. The lemon creme is a shortbread cookie filled with a lemon creme center.

The chocolate and vanilla creme cookies come in the same box. The Scot-Tea is the traditional shortbread cookie in the shape of the Girl Scout trefoil.

The ever-popular Savannah is a sandwich cookie filled with peanut butter creme center.

Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts will be selling cookies at shopping centers and stores in the area as well as door-to-door in their own neighborhoods.

Told by Former SM Rancher

Colorful Dalton Saga

By VERA GRAHAM

Their brother said "It was laziness, bad company, bad habits and bad whiskey that did it."

Having a mother who spoiled them and a father who hauled them around the country while gambling on his mangy racehorses didn't help.

That's what Littleton Dalton, the respectable, hardworking brother said about his four notorious brothers who wrote infamous chapters in the criminal history of the Midwest and California. They were the "Dalton Gang."

Their story has just been written in a first-person interview of Littleton Dalton, who had refused to say anything about his brothers and their exploits until the last one of them died a number of years ago.

The man who captured the story is Frank Latta, 85, a former Coastside rancher and owner at one time of the famed Gazos Ranch, near Pescadero.

Latta is a story in himself.

He is noted for his historic sleuthing, having tracked down literally scores of pioneers who could give a first-hand account of the events that made history in the mid or late 1800s. Latta refuses to cull from other histories. He finds his man, or woman, who can tell him the story as he or she lived it.

FRANK LATTA

The result is fascinating reading and insight into the rough, riotous, tough days and lives of those who plowed through America, leaving it better or worse than when they found it.

As Latta writes it and Littleton tells it, the Dalton gang started out by being a bunch of pretty wild young guys. But at one time, some of them were U.S. deputy sheriffs in the Indian Territory. Then they began rustling the Indians' horses and selling them. That in turn led to train and bank holdups, sensational and murderous.

It may come as a surprise to some to learn the Daltons spent a good deal of time in Kern, San Joaquin, Merced and Tulare counties. They did their share of robbing there and were accused of crimes they did not commit, according to their brother.

The Dalton Gang consisted of Bob, Emmett, Grat and Bill (or Mason, which was his proper name).

There were 15 children in the Dalton family. Ten were boys, six of whom went "straight" or died in early years. The other four boys gained infamy.

The Daltons, according to Latta's verbatim story of Littleton's account, arrived in California in 1890.

The "gang" just grew. Its nucleus of three brothers expanded to include Bill, or Mason. And, ironically, Bill had been a winner. He saw his brothers heading for trouble and wanted to "straighten them out."

According to Littleton, not only did he not "straighten them out," but they did him in.

Latta quotes Littleton Dalton as saying, "They sure broke him. When Bob and Emmett and Grat finally finished with him, he was a bum; his stock and farming equipment were gone, and he was finally killed running an outlaw band of his own."

He had been more than respectable, prior to his brothers' arrival. Littleton says, "He had never been in any trouble. He was a well-respected farmer and politician. He was then Democratic Central Committee Chairman of Merced County and also a political committeeman in the area near Estrella."

The book is replete with clear recollections of a youngster's travels in a covered wagon, of early day ranching using bull-powered plows. The book tells of the terrible tragedy and violence of the kind of shoot-outs that have provided stories for thousands of films.

Fresno, Hanford, Visalia, Tulare, Delano, Bakersfield, all at one time or another, rang with the cry, "The Daltons did it."

Latta relates sheriffs of Tulare, Fresno and Kern counties constantly used large forces in the hunt for the Daltons.

Constables, marshals, police and night watchmen, swarms of amateur detectives, gumshoe sleuths and reward hunters were in the field, seeking the Daltons.

It's a fun book to read, if one can keep the Daltons and the cast of characters in line. Latta says the book at $15 costs "too much." But he says the price of printing it is a burden on him.

The book can only be obtained by writing to: Bear State Books, 304 High St., Santa Cruz.

And Latta has scads of other, similar type historic stories, including, Saga of El Tejon, Tailholt Tales, Joaquin Murietta and His Horse Gangs.

For your useful information file, here are some facts:

Once California car drivers were advised to carry a kit with 34 basic tools, including a small vise, a short handled axe, a towing cable, an assortment of pins, bolts, nuts and screws and two two-gallon water bags. Motorists were advised to carry 51 spare parts and emergency food supplies for four people including four pounds of hardtack and four cans of meat or fish.

Drivers who journeyed from California to Arizona once had to negotiate a road of wooden planks that was thought to be the best paving material for miles of sand dunes. Not many years ago, motorists who wished to visit Yosemite National Park were stopped at the entrance. This condition prevailed until a man became Secretary of Interior who would change the law that prevented the contraption from "polluting the parks." Hundreds of people who objected to his order said the secretary had made the biggest mistake since "Adam allowed the serpent to find lodgment in Eden."

The automobile, writes historian T. H. Watkins, made "California . . . what she would remain: a civilization on wheels."

History, as recorded by Peter Roberts in his "A Picture History of the Automobile" (Triune Books, 1973) shows that the first mechanically propelled vehicle was a tractor that was invented in 1769 by Nicholas Cugnot. It was a three wheeled car that was run by steam and was designed to carry guns for the French Army. To Cugnot goes the distinction of having had the first motor vehicle accident in history. His tractor ran into a wall.

Roberts book reveals that Cugnot's motor tractor caused so much trouble that the French withdrew their interest, leaving the development of the automobile to interprising Englishmen and Americans. Even in those coutries the governments were so afraid of the "machine" they passed laws that impeded the motor cars development.

A British law of 1865 directed that "at least three persons shall be employed to drive or conduct a locomotive" (motor driven vehicle) and "secondly that one of such persons, while any locomotive is in motion, shall precede such locomotive on foot by not less than 60 yards, and shall carry a red flag constantly displayed."

Years later, in 1902, a Vermont law demanded that "every automobile be preceded by a responsible adult waving a red flag," while a Tennessee law demanded a week's notice before a motorist made a trip.

To add to such sentiment, President Woodrow Wilson found the automobile to be a major cause of social unrest.

"Nothing has spread socialistic feeling in this country more than the use of the automobile," he said. "To the countryman, they are a picture of the arrogance of wealth, with all its independence and carelessness."

Despite such opinions, by 1910 there were 460,000 automobiles in the United States, and 36,000 of them were in California. By 1919, the state was spending $40,000,000 for road construction. Pictures in Watkins "California: Illustrated History" show that horse-drawn scrapers were used to build roads for automobiles.

The history of motorcars may be found in "The American Car Since 1775," a 1971 publication of the Automobile Quarterly. In its last edition it is regarded as the most comprehensive survey of American and Canadian cars ever published. It contains hundreds of pictures. Of special interest is a section of calendar year production of automobiles from 1896 to 1970. "The American Car Since 1775" is a unique book and should be read by many people.

"Wheels for a Nation" by Frank Donovan (Crowell 1965) is an older book that has been read widely and still attracts many readers. It is written like a novel with the automotile as the hero who wins success in spite of the many hardships that were placed in its path by people from financiers to preachers to lawmakers. To illustrate the automobile triumph, Donovan included more than 100 photographs in his book.

Seek Permanent Posts At Receiving Home

Child Care Workers to Strike Friday

By MICHELLE CARTER

Seventeen of the 27 child care workers at the Children's Receiving Home in San Mateo County have set a Friday deadline for a strike.

In a letter sent to Ed Ward, director of the Receiving Home, and all their superiors in county social services, the 17 temporary workers explained their dissatisfaction with what they consider to be unjust working conditions.

If they strike, the child care staff of the Receiving Home will be depleted by two-thirds. The only remaining workers will be permanent employes who are forbidden by their contracts to strike.

The workers are asking that by Friday a date, to be within 90 days, be set for a civil service exam for child care workers. Then they want a hiring list to be composed from those who passed the exam.

They have not demanded that permanent workers be hired, but Sharon Marks, a permanent child care worker at the Receiving Home, said that they are assuming that the county will act in good faith on the commitment the workers have received from William L. May, county personnel director, that 14 permanent workers will be hired for the home.

May, however, says that he has no authority to make a commitment about hiring new permanent workers. "Only the board (of supervisors) can add positions, and the idea that I had committed myself on 14 new permanent workers must have been a misunderstanding within the department."

The Receiving Home, located at 37th and Hacienda Avenues, is charged by the county with the care of abused, neglected and abandoned children — children who have been removed from their home under Sec. 600 of the Welfare and Institutions code and are awaiting foster home placement.

They range in age from 11 to 18 and are out of their homes as a result of failures by their parents, not because of offenses they themselves have committed.

Spokesman for the temporary workers, Steve Scott, explained that it has been the custom at the Receiving Home for temporary workers to be routinely rehired after the 6-month period of their employment is up. Some workers, he said, have continued in temporary capacity for several successive terms receiving the same pay as a permanent employe, but without such benefits as health insurance, vacations and sick pay.

"Now the word has come down to us that this rehiring practice violates a county code, and as each one of us reaches the end of our current 6-month period, we will be laid off.

"However we have been told that Mr. (William L.) May (county personnel director) has agreed to get around the rule by allowing a temporary worker to be rehired in a different unit." So, he explained, a counselor in the girls' unit could be rehired to work in the boys' unit as long as a worker in the boys' unit is willing to change places. But only one such switch per employe will be permitted, Scott said.

"We feel that this is no solution at all. This will have the effect of uprooting the relationship each child has with his counselor. And each time something like this happens to a child — a social worker doesn't have time to make a regular visit or his parents disappoint him — he gets depressed and acts out.

"Also workers have been hired for what they can bring to a specific job. Many counselors now on the boys' staff would be inappropriate working with the girls, and vice versa."

He added that since only one move would be allowed, "presumably all 17 temporary workers eventually would be laid off and untrained persons will be hired to do their jobs. We can't understand why it's necessary to keep recycling people in and out of the lives of these children who need stability more than anything else."

The obvious answer, Scott believes, is to make permanent positions out of the temporary ones.

May said he could appreciate the frustration that the temporary workers are feeling, but he could only confirm that the hiring new permanent workers for the Receiving Home "is being discussed. It may or may not be a possibility."

He explained that new employes were hired on a temporary basis a year ago when it became necessary to divide the Receiving Home into two physical plants — the girls at the Home and the boys at the Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center near Belmont.

"It was always the intention to operate just one facility and, as far as I know, we still intend to go back to one. Temporary workers were hired so it wouldn't be necessary to lay off permanent ones when it was possible to go back to one unit. But it's gone on much longer than anyone had hoped.

"I don't like to see the continuation of temporary employes either. These positions were not meant to continue forever; that's why there is the 1,040 hours (6-month) limitation."

He also pointed out that he has held his current position for only eight months and he was not aware that any temporary workers were rehired routinely without being transferred.

Charlene Shores, a permanent child care worker at the Receiving Home, believes that refusing to make the temporary workers permanent allows the county to continue a charade.

"Whenever they talk about the Receiving Home, they talk about 10 permanent workers — as if that's all there are here. But the truth is there's three times that many here and we couldn't operate without them all."

'Domestic Situation'

Pacifica Man Shot in Chest

A Pacifica man was shot in the chest Saturday afternoon and the Placer County man accused of doing it is free on $10,000 bail Monday in what Pacifica authorities call a "domestic situation."

The victim, James A. Smith, 36, signed himself out of Mary's Help Hospital about three hours after the incident, according to police. They said Smith suffered a .38-caliber gunshot wound in the upper left chest area, about two inches from the heart. The bullet went through him.

Released after turning himself in to Placer County authorities and after talking with Pacifica Police Sgt. Edward Burton was 39-year-old John Sorenson of Newcastle, near Auburn.

Burton said the shooting was part of a "domestic situation," explaining that Smith's wife, Adele, formerly was married to Sorenson. The Smiths live in an apartment on Francisco Boulevard.

Police said Sorenson, apparently angered over reports about Smith decided to drive to Pacifica.

Sorenson went to the Greenway Drive residence of his ex-wife's sister, Elma Blass, Friday night. Shortly before 2 p.m., Saturday, according to Sgt. Burton, Smith walked up to the Greenway residence that the Blass woman shares with a roommate, Bond, opened the front door and walked toward Sorenson in the living room.

Burton said Sorenson at that time allegedly shot Smith. The slug went through Smith, and lodged in a wall of the living room, he said.

The authorities said Mrs. Smith was in the home at the time, along with her sister and the roommate.

Sorenson fled the scene on foot, Burton said, cutting through the Sharp Park Golf Course to his car, which was parked on Clarendon Drive. He then drove to Placer County, where he ultimately turned himself in.

Smith, after checking out of the hospital, went to talk with Pacifica authorities.

"He looked like he was hurting," said Sgt. Burton of the wounded Smith.

Two SSF Tots Are Injured

Two South San Francisco children were seriously injured Thursday afternoon when they were hit by a car while crossing a street with their mother.

Arrested and charged with felony drunken driving was Angel Castro, 32, 379 C. St., an unemployed steel worker, according to the Police Department.

Both children were reported in critical, but stable condition at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco.

Marcella Navarro, 6, was dragged 116 feet from the intersection where she was hit.

Police said that Castro was driving west at 3:20 p.m. on Railroad Avenue and was turning left onto Spruce Avenue when he struck the two children who were following their mother across the street.

Coffee Prices Up, Drinkers 'Team'

By JANET PARKER

San Mateo County coffee drinkers are steaming!

The price of a pound of coffee has perked so high that many coffee drinkers say it's becoming a luxury. The 35 cent cup of coffee and the 10 cent refill — apparently just around the corner — will be even harder to swallow.

Workers, housewives and students who traditionally gather over a cup of coffee to complain about their tribulations, instead are chiding the cost of their coffee.

What are San Mateo County residents doing about the coffee prices?

Not much.

On the East Coast, a boycott backed by five major grocery chains, is shaping.

In Chicago, retail stores have agreed to freeze coffee prices for 45 days.

Although coffee drinkers are roasting about the prices here, there's no sign of either a boycott or a push for a price freeze.

At one San Bruno shopping center, shoppers and workers complained about prices as they sipped the brew.

David Stratman of San Bruno said he drinks up to 12 cups a day, and he would support a local boycott because he believes the coffee price increase is unnecessary and invalid.

"The government is doing a 'number' on us — like they did with eggs and milk," he said. In fact, an East Coast congressman has charged that higher export taxes on coffee lead to vast profits while lowering U.S. foreign aid obligations.

Nonetheless, in the meantime, he's still drinking coffee.

Rich Kotowski, also of San Bruno, said he doubts that a boycott would have any effect, because people will pay for coffee no matter what the price. He, too, is continuing to drink coffee although he resents the price hike.

Doris Zarcone of Millbrae said she used to drink eight cups a day. Now she's down to four cups — simply because she resents the prices.

She said she's ired by reports that coffee-producing countries, Brazil in particular, had more profit this than any other year. The Brazilian frost of 1975 is blamed for the price increase.

"I definitely go along with the idea of a boycott," she said.

South San Franciscan Barbara Hamilton said she has quit making fresh coffee at home and has switched to more economical instant.

She refuses to purchase coffee at all in restaurants, where it sells for 35 cents a cup.

"I would just have a glass of water," she said. A coffee boycott, said one coffee drinker, would only result in a lot of grumpy, sleepy people.

"People are more concerned about the price of dope," he said.

Newspaper ads in 1970 show coffee selling for 74 cents a 1 lb. can, $1.19 for 2 lb. can, and $1.99, for a 3 lb. can. Today, a 1 lb. can sells for about $2.40 and there are not many ads bragging about the price.

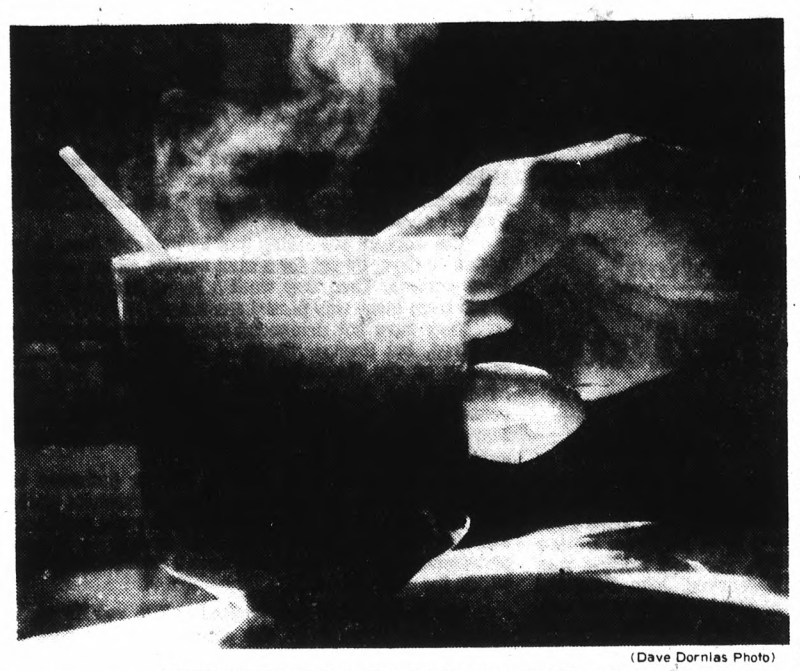
Coffee shop owners say customers are drinking as much coffee as ever.

"They don't even complain anymore," said Vic Marson of Marson's Coffee Shop in South San Francisco. "It used to be every time it went up a cent on an item, they'd scream. Now everybody's gotten numb."

Edith Lovell, owner of Caboose Coffee Shop in Burlingame, said she hears a lot of talk about coffee prices in her shop, where a cup costs 30 cents and may increase to 35 cents soon.

"People don't believe the stories," she said. "They think someone's just hoarding all the money from the coffee. They don't believe there's a real problem for the farmers."

Ed Demps' customers at his coffee shop in San Mateo are just as willing to pay 30 cents a cup and 10 cents for refills after the third cup as they were to pay earlier and lower prices.



(Dave Dornias Photo)

THE LURE OF A GOOD CUP OF COFFEE

Peninulans are apparently resisting attempts to boycott coffee to force prices down but they are not happy about the increased cost of one of their favorite beverages.

Patrons at Pat's Coffee Shop in Burlingame will be paying 35 cents a cup, a 10 cent increase, when new menus arrive in February. Manager Len Southorn said the days of the bottomless cup are over.

"Always before, it was all you want. Now we're leveling off," he said.

The owner of Skycrest Coffee Shop in San Bruno, Edith Hood, said two customers on Wednesday refused coffee, saying they plan to boycott. They drank tea instead.

"It's really bad," she said. "If more people boycott, I'll go right along with it." Two years ago when she started her shop, she bought coffee wholesale for $1.36 a pound. Now, it's double that price. A cup of coffee just increased to 30 cents.

More coffee shops are charging for refills. If your coffee shop waitress seems slow, don't get angry at her. She's probably been told by her employer to fill the coffee cups up a little less often.

The local coffee vending companies say that if their wholesale prices don't level off in the next 30 to 60 days, coffee will cost at least five cents more a cup than it does now.

Joe Kitts, area controller of Canteen, said coffee has been selling at 15 cents for the past 4½ years at the airport and many other businesses it serves.

Coffee, he said, is sold in the same machines as soup, tea, and chocolate. However, 95 per cent of the hot beverage machines sales are in coffee.

And, he said, when the price of coffee in the machines goes up, so will everything else.

Bob Russi, owner of Russi and Son Vending Co. in Colma, said he's been procrastinating about an increase for five years. A machine cup now sells for 15 cents.

Facing the angry mob in office buildings is difficult for the vendor.

"When dealing with businesses, you deal on a personal basis. When you go in and raise the prices, it's like a personal affront to them," Russi said.

South San Franciscan Margaret Pursch of Consumer Act Now said she's received only one phone call from a consumer interested in a coffee boycott. She's an avid coffee drinker — eight to 10 cups a day — but she's been cutting back in recent weeks.

"I love coffee, but you have to draw the line somewhere," she said.

Unlike the East Coast stores, Bay Area supermarket chains are avoiding talk of a boycott.

Norman Gotelli, buyer for the QFI chain based in Colma, said he's stocking the shelves with the bare minimum of coffee, simply because it's too expensive to buy in vast quantities.

"I personally feel that consumers will institute their own boycott if prices go up any higher," Gotelli said.

Ted Brunner of the Lucky's chain said consumers are now buying coffee for $2.45 to $2.50 a pound at his stores. But the wholesale costs are now over $3 a pound. It's a good indication that the end of the price spiral is nowhere in sight.

Lucky's is not, however, advocating a boycott.

"We strictly let our customers make their own choice," he said.

Neither do coffee companies want anything to do with a boycott.

John Houston, area president of Superior Coffee which serves hotels and restaurants, said coffee shops aren't pouring coffee as freely as in the past.

However, he said, no one has boycotted popular soft drinks or beer as those prices have jumped.

"Coffee is still the cheapest beverage on the market," he said.

Vendors are skeptical that a boycott has any chance of catching on here or elsewhere.

"Knowing the American people, it won't happen," Russi said. "When they want something, they buy it."

At Security Pacific Bank, you can borrow on the money you have in your house.

Our simple interest Homeowners Loan Program means you can put the equity in your house to work.

The key word is equity. Quite simply, equity is the cash you've invested in your house plus its increase in market value since you bought it.

And in recent years, that's probably a lot. Why not use it? You may be able to borrow from $5,000 up, based on the equity in your house. And the loan will in no way affect the low interest rate you have on your first mortgage.

You can take up to twelve years to pay it back, and if you should want to pay it back sooner, there is no penalty whatever. Just 12% annual percentage rate. Quite a bit lower than most installment loans, we might add. And our processing costs are low, too. Just $75. A glance at the chart will give you a pretty good idea of a program that will fit your income and your needs.

Enrollments Dropping

Enrollments in the San Mateo Union High School District will continue to drop through the rest of this decade and well into the 1980s.

That is the gist of an annual enrollment report issued Thursday night to the district's board of trustees.

The report states that this year's enrollment of 11,491 will decline to an estimated 10,723 in 1981-82.

In that year, the district will experience the phenomenon of a decreasing number of students coming from Foster City, the report notes.

According to the district's administration, the peak enrollment from Foster City, 1,712 students, will be experienced in 1980-81. After that year, Foster City's student populace will begin to drop along with that of other parts of the district.

That means the rate of decline will accelerate by the early 1980s.

The trustees listened to the report and then took up a discussion about the district's master plan, now in its early stages.

The enrollment report is considered a vital component of the master plan.

The district's peak enrollment was reached in 1969-70 when the total came to 12,049 students.

The district's superintendent, Dr. Austin Sellery, told the trustees that the district will reach a decision point for closing a school in 1982-83, when enrollment will probably drop below 10,842, the point at which the district will have lost the equivalent of one school worth of enrollment since 1969-70.

There are several other factors to consider in closing a school besides enrollment, Sellery said in his report to the board. Future board meetings will consider those criteria.

In their discussion, the trustees stressed that formulation of a master plan should not be devoted only to consideration of shutting a school.

They noted that what to do about Marina High School also should be included in any master planning mix. Marina would be the high school built in Foster City, if and when district conditions merit such construction. The enrollment decline has virtually halted such talk, however.

Trustee Ruth Steiner has suggested that the district could place the Marina issue on a future ballot as a sort of informal straw poll which would not bind the district one way or the other but would give the board at least an indication of the kind of support that does or does not exist for Marina's construction.

The future of Marina has a bearing on the district because the addition of an eighth school while enrollment is dropping would represent a departure from current practice.

Districts which are losing enrollment normally consider shutting schools, not building new ones.

Councilman 'Prepared to Act Swiftly' on Statements

A South San Francisco councilman said Wednesday night that his lawyer says he has no grounds to sue another councilman for slander over remarks made at a council meeting.

But he said he would be ready to do so if the remarks had been made under other circumstances.

Councilman Dick Battaglia said his attorney advised him that statements made by Councilman William Borba at a Dec. 15 council meeting were "privileged" because they were made in public.

However, the same statements made outside of a public meeting, he said, might be grounds for legal action.

"I am pledged to bring the necessary legal actions in the event that that person makes such statements outside the scope of our meetings and I am prepared to act swiftly," Battaglia read from a prepared statement.

He did not directly refer to Borba or to the Dec. 15 incident in his statement.

At that meeting, Borba accused Battaglia, Mayor Leo Padreddii and a former councilman, Frank Mammini, of opposing a business tax on apartment owners because it was in their own interest to do so.

"Certain elements of the council are playing footsies with apartment owners," Borba had said.

Battaglia said then that his only connection with apartments is that his wife's uncle owns one.

Padreddii owns two duplexes and Mammini is a licensed contractor.

Immediately after the remarks, Battaglia said he would seek the advice of his attorney.

Padreddii had brushed off the remarks, saying that Borba probably didn't mean what he said.

Battaglia refused to say who is his attorney.

Borba said he had no comment in response to Battaglia.

"It is my firm belief that the person making such untrue, outrageous and defamatory statements has also been informed of the law and therefore makes those statements only when he is protected by the legal privilege," Battaglia said.

"I believe that he refuses to make those statements at other times for fear of legal actions that would necessarily follow were he stripped of the privilege the law provides to a speaker at a public meeting.

"It is my firm belief that the speaker does not have the courage to make such statements to the public or private persons in the absence of that privilege," Battaglia added.

"It is my further opinion that he does not actually believe the statements he is making himself, but does so for political purposes and to obtain an unfair political advantage that is, in the long run, of no benefit to our community," he said.

Borba, a South San Francisco businessman, has blasted an increase in a business license tax but advocated a tax on apartment owners.

FIT FOR A MAYOR (Dave Dornias Photo)

"Try it, Mr. Mayor, you'll like it." That's what these two youthful San Mateo County Transit District (SamTrans) enthusiasts seem to be telling Daly City Mayor Anthony Giammona at ceremonies marking the start of SamTrans bus service in the city Saturday. The tee-shirts, emblazoned with the district's red, white and blue colors, were available during festivities held at the Serramonte Shopping Center, as were dignitaries from throughout the county and state.

Former Smoker Fumes About Demon Tobacco

By FRANK LaPIERRIE

Another year is over and a new year about to begin. With it comes hope and promise of a fresh start. New Year resolutions are made — and soon broken.

Our resolution is to continue pushing for a world-wide ban on cigarette smoking, especially in public places by the public (including officials) at public meetings.

At the very least, places of public assembly should have no-smoking areas where non-smokers can sit in relative safety and comfort.

An Analysis

Mind you, I have nothing against those persons addicted to tobacco. Fact is, I once smoked myself.

I once puffed away three packs a day in my youth. I stopped smoking 16 years ago, before my lungs stopped functioning.

Now I find that all those stories about smoke-filled back rooms where politicians meet to discuss public business are really "smoke filled rooms."

Take Daly City.

Weekly the council and staff sit around a table in a small conference room to hammer out matters related to the daily activities of the city.

Of the five council members, three smoke (McRobert Stewart, Victor Kyriakis and William Schumacher).

Other generous contributors to the smog that chokes city hall on meeting nights is Community Development Director Don Fleming; City Manager David Rowe (who is an on-again, off-again smoker); City Attorney Al Polonsky, City Engineer David Macabee and numerous others who attend the sessions.

Polonsky's cigar puffing alone is considered a major pollutant in the barely breathable air found at city hall.

During a discussion on designating non-smoking areas for the public last week, Polonsky showed his contempt for the proposal by pulling out a cigar and lighting it, sending huge clouds of smoke billowing into the air.

Medical authorities agree that smoking isn't the best thing in the world for a person's respiratory areas.

But what about the poor folk who have to sit and breathe the smoke in second-hand? It's downright distasteful, unhealthy, and practically unbreathable.

Safety experts (including fire officials) point to the cigarette as a major cause of fires in the nation — fires that cause tens of thousands of deaths and injuries each year.

While many local fire officials are currently hot about outlawing non-public displays of fireworks, why don't they divert some of this energy toward cooling a proven cause of disasters — burning tobacco — in public areas.

Smoking

That is, part of the tables are in the "no smoking" section, while two upper tables can be considered in the "smoking" section.

In the small confined second level council conference room, where Polonsky lit up a cigar last week when Mayor Anthony Giammona first brought up the matter of no smoking in designated public meeting areas, smokers will sit on the mayor's right.

Polonsky's bravado was interpreted by some persons attending the public session as contempt for the proposed "no smoking" ban.

In the past, Polonsky sat on the mayor's left — the no-smoking section under the new ruling.

Stewart Leads Election Costs

Daly City Councilman McRobert L. Stewart spent nearly $40,000 in his losing effort to be elected to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors last year.

Stewart's election expenses totalled $39,638 in the campaign, which was won by Fred Lyon, to succeed Jean Fassler, who did not seek re-election.

Lyon reported total campaign expenses of $34,375 in a statement filed with the office of San Mateo County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church.

In the race for the 19th District Assembly seat held by Democrat Louis Papan, the incumbent reported expenditures of $23,341, while his Republican opponent, Dorothy Adams, reported expenditures of only $70.

Republican Dixon Arnett, who handily won re-election to his 20th District Assembly seat, reported spending $16,191 in the campaign, with his Democratic opponent, Byron Skinner, reporting expenditures of $1,792.

In the 18th and 21st Assembly districts, won by Democratic incumbents Leo McCarthy and Victor Calvo respectively, no campaign expenditure statements were filed in San Mateo County since the majority of their districts are situated in San Francisco and Santa Clara counties and their statements were filed in those counties.

Peninsula Prostitution to Increase?

By JANET PARKER

Some San Mateo County police departments are expecting prostitution to increase here as San Francisco cracks down on vice.

While the local departments say they don't have the personnel to focus specific attention on prostitution, they are keeping in close contact with hotel and motel operators who serve San Francisco International Airport travelers.

"Historically when San Francisco, Oakland or any other of our neighbors put some kind of special emphasis on a problem, the problem obviously relocates and we get our share of it," said South San Francisco Police Capt. James Swinfard.

"I'll be surprised if those kinds of activities don't increase in our city," Swinfard said.

The size of the effect will depend upon how much pressure the San Francisco Police Department actually exerts on prostitutes, Swinfard said.

"It'll be a direct result of how nervous they make the individuals involved up there," Swinfard said.

South San Francisco is the closest city south of San Francisco with a hotel-motel strip primarily serving airport patrons. Major chain hotels are situated along South Airport Boulevard and are frequented by convention groups.

Swinfard said that in the last year there have been about six prostitution arrests, two on the strip and the remainder at hotels and motels elsewhere in the city.

Police officers on the street can tell readily when there is an influx of prostitutes to the area, Swinfard said.

Lt. Tom Chase of the Burlingame Police Department said he too is expecting a suburban increase in prostitution as a result of the San Francisco crackdown.

"There definitely will be an upswing," Chase said. "We are going to be in for a problem down here."

Chase said his department found prostitution more of an enforcement problem when Oakland announced a crackdown last year.

When many strange reports of thefts are turned into the police, the detective division gets suspicious.

An unusual number of reports of wallet thefts from automobile glove compartments might be an indication, he said. When the police follow up those reports, they may find that the wallets were actually stolen by prostitutes.

"When we start seeing that, we know they are back down here," Chase said.

Burlingame officers will begin filling out more field investigation cards and more frequently patrolling the hotel-motel area, situated primarily along Old Bayshore Highway.

"When you have a hotel strip and it's close to the airport, you have a problem to start with," he said.

Last year, Burlingame police arrested six women on prostitution charges, Chase said.

Both cities said officers are already in close contact with the hotel and motel managers.

Chase said the hotels and motels in this area are quick to report any suspicious activity because they cater to families and want nothing to do with illicit businesses.

San Mateo Police Capt. Howard Trickett said he expects only a "slight increase" in prostitution in that city as San Francisco reportedly cracks down.

The effect, he said, will be nothing like what South San Francisco and Burlingame anticipated. Hotels and motels in San Mateo are not located on a single strip and there are fewer than in the more notherly cities.

Without the presence of so-called streetwalkers, he said, it's hard to determine if there is an actually increase. The Police Department has to wait for reports about prostitution to come in.

Both Millbrae and San Bruno police departments said they don't believe prostitution will be a problem in their cities. Both have only a few scattered motels.

Scholars to Wash Cars; Athletic Awards Given

The Regent

By Mylene Schwimmer
Commissioner of Publicity

Have your car washed Jan. 15 at the St. Francis Square Mobil Gas Station in Daly City between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. by members of the Serramonte California Scholarship Federation (C.S.F.).

The cost is $1. The proceeds go for senior scholarships at the end of the school year. So don't forget — have your car washed by C.S.F.!

HAVE YOU EVER seen one of Serramonte's Drama Department spring plays? If you haven't, your chance is coming up. If you have, you can see another one because Serramonte High School is going to be putting on "West Side Story."

This production, which will be put on in May, is open to all interested Serramonte students, and looks like it will be one of Serramonte's finest.

SERRAMONTE'S GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL teams were very successful last season. Both the varsity and the junior varsity teams made the playoffs and came in second out of eight schools.

The varsity players were Marilyn Brontigan, Lynnel Callagy, Florence Cassidy, Elisa Horta, Esther Logia, Elizabeth Mesen, Adele Rendon and Jerri Valencia.

The junior varsity players were Diane Bugler, Angela Foster, Kathy Freitas, Denise Keegan, Lisa Moeller, Vicki Parker, Pam Sneed, Joyce Thompson, Cathy Thordsen and Julie Viray.

Coach Pam Reagan says that judging by the teams' performances, they should have no trouble taking first place next season.

THE WINNERS of boys' sports awards announced at the Serramonte Fall Athletic Banquet in December were: Varsity Football Most Valuable Player (MVP), Dan Lara, and Outstanding Varsity Defensive Player, Freddie Miranda; Junior Varsity Football MVP, Anthony Hale, and Most Improved Player (MIP), Dennis Anchondo. The "C" Basketball Team's MVP was Mike Gutierrez. The Cross Country team's MVP was Roger Campos. These award-winning athletes received trophies and deserve to be proud of their accomplishments.

COMING UP SOON will be freshmen and sophomore semester class elections. In the fall, junior and senior officers were elected for a full school year, while underclassmen were elected for only one semester.

The positions that will be open are freshman and sophomore president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. As well as having individual responsibilities, these officers are responsible for keeping their classes informed of all class-related activities and working to promote these activites as well as class spirit.

The eligibility requirements for students running for class office are that they have earned at least a 2.0 grade point average in the semester prior to the one in which they will serve; have received no grade of F in the semester prior to the one in which they will serve; and they must not hold any other Student Body or Class Office simultaneously.

If students meet these requirements, they may obtain from the Commission of Elections a petition of office to be signed by 25 Serramonte students in their grade. When complete, the petition should be turned back to the Commission of Elections who checks the students' qualifications.

Running for class office is a worthwhile experience which every student should think of doing.

THE SERRAMONTE sophomore class of '79 recently completed a fund-raising candy sale. The top seller was Ty Cheng. For each case of candy that students sold, their name was entered in a drawing. The grand prize winner in the drawing was Beverly Coy. She will receive a year's supply of ice cream from Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor. Second prize of two tickets to Great America went to Susan Yoshioka.

The Serramonte attendance office is asking that they be notified if any students have moved or changed their telephone number. This is extremely important if parents are to be notified in an emergency.

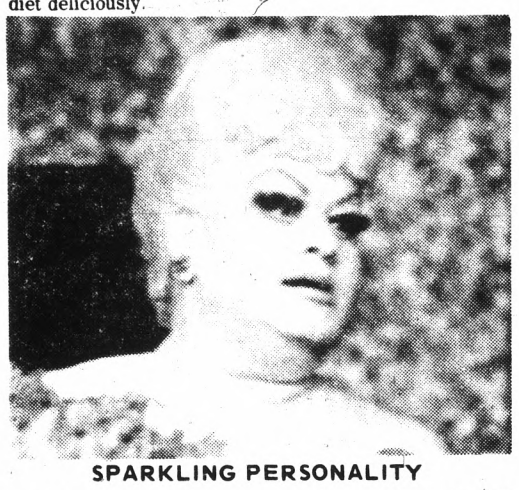
BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Scotty Campbell's Holiday Decorations

Enjoyed a pre-holiday dinner at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S, Redwood City, and words of praise for the decorations would make RICHARD TRAINOR blush. The lavishly-decorated restaurant was eye-catching. Add an epicurean dinner of Prime Ribs of Beef, English cut, and Cherry Cheese Cake dessert enjoyed before a crackling fireplace and you have experienced an evening out to long remember.....Sure missed VINCE'S ITALIAN AND SEAFOOD restaurant not being open over the holidays. But all is back to normal with fast service, excellent menu choice, and cheerful crew.....New Year's was a gala event in Rockaway Beach, what with NICK'S restaurant and THE MOONRAKER keeping up to the holiday pace. The celebrating customers had plenty of room to blow their horns — and did just that — long and loud.....The RAMADA INN, San Francisco, plays an active part in making Fisherman's Wharf a worthwhile visit. The Pirates Den is the answer to disco entertainment seven nights a week from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m..... Even if you overdid it on the holidays, you can still eat, drink and be slender at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden Restaurant in San Francisco. Owner MURRAY LEHR features tempting dinners such as Shrimp Creole New Orleans and Filet of Petrale Sole Almondine that let you diet deliciously.



SPARKLING PERSONALITY

Val de Vere, who has been in show business for 25 years, demonstrates that experience and expertise in his songs and showmanship nightly, except Mondays and Thursdays, at world famed Finocchio's.

Chuck's Donuts Now Open in Belmont

Hats off to the new CHUCK'S DONUTS, located on Ralston Avenue in Belmont. LOU COFFARO, who, during the pouring rain last Sunday and Monday, was pouring hot coffee and giving free samples of his delicious doughnuts to visiting patrons, is the shop owner. One of the neatest looking spots on doughnut row, Chuck's Donuts offers 24 hour service seven days a week. Whether you eat in or take out, a "Baker's Dozen" (13) is a palate treat. Plenty of parking.....ENRICO ROMANO, the Rockaway Beach pizza and Italian restaurant tycoon, has his bags packed, along with tennis racket and golf clubs, and four tickets for the Super Bowl game tucked in his wallet. Like we've said before, this "kid" really lives.....JOE GREENBACH, general manager of the VILLA HOTEL in San Mateo, reports that CHARLIE BLACKWELL'S New Year's Eve Party was a smash. The VILLA LOUNGE did a banner business over a 24 hour period, and the hotel was booked to capacity.....Dinner guests at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY in downtown San Francisco just can't believe their eyes when PHIL cooks gourmet steak dishes such as Steak Diane to order at tableside on the incredible Fasar flamless magnetic stove . . . BOB McLANE'S "Super Special" dinner for $2.95 is your reward any day of the week when seeking out his YOLANDA'S TERMINAL CAFE and COCKTAIL LOUNGE, which is not the easiest restaurant to find on the Peninsula. The dinner, served family style, includes Roast Sirloin of Beef as the entree, minestrone soup, salad, pasta, two vegetables, French bread, and complimentary wine. Yolanda's is located among the South San Francisco Produce Market warehouses (just off Airport Blvd. approaching the Bayshore Freeway).

Bright Lights Reader $25,000 Winner

A San Mateo "Bright Lights" reader called to tell us that our suggestion to visit BARNEY'S and the SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET in South Lake Tahoe paid off for him. On January 1 he played a Keno ticket at Barney's and wound up with a solid eight spot which was good for $25,000. He also took time to wish this scribe a Happy New Year.....At the Bank of America World Headquarters building, elevators whisk you to "DAVRE'S" CARNELIAN ROOM on the fifty-second story for one of the grandest views of San Francisco, the Bay and the Pacific Ocean while enjoying a spectacular meal and cocktails. Intimate dinners or lavish banquets.....THE LOS COMPADRES restaurant, piloted by TOMAS BERMEJO, is all set for 1977. A new partition separates the dining area from the lounge and a new oven has been installed. Restaurant service until 12 midnight seven days a week. Located just two blocks from Bay Meadows, this friendly Mexican restaurant is handy to fans of harness racing, which is now attracting big track attendance. . . . Full disco at FACES this week, with JOHN HARKER taking over as D.J. If you haven't visited this pop Burlingame spot, jot it down for a weekend of fun. . . . For lunch at THE CASTAWAY, Coyote Point, try the hot Crab Kamehameha (King Crab served over toast and covered with bubbling cheddar cheese sauce). It's one of many specialties prepared at mid-day. . . . The BAYHILL LOUNGE in San Bruno is still "blowing a horn" about their huge New Year's Eve party. Owners HARRY CURUSIS and MEL CICERO would like to thank all who made it possible.

Finally, Land Use Plan In SB Council's Lap

By RICK SULLIVAN

San Bruno's weighty Land Use Element of the General Plan — the product of 1½ years of compilation and six months of public discussion and staff revision — finally has reached the City Council.

The council, Monday night, heard testimony from residents who jammed the council chambers to let the council know what they think of a draft Land Use Plan first recommended for approval by the Planning Commission last December.

For nearly two hours, councilmen listened to constituents' concerns of future development policies affecting all land in the city. The arguments fell distinctly along growth, no-growth lines.

The council ultimately decided to take no action on the document and to withhold comment until its next meeting, in two weeks, when all five council members are to be present. Councilman Tony Governale was forced to leave the meeting early because of a family illness.

The Land Use Element identifies all parcels of land in San Bruno and designates types of development — residential, commercial, industrial, and community facility — allowed in zones of parcels. It also lists a wide range of densities for the residential areas — low, low medium, medium and high.

During Planning Commission hearings, most discussion centered on the future of property in the three neighborhoods east of El Camino Real, Lomita Park, San Bruno Park and Belle Aire.

The planning staff had recommended that these areas, inhabited mostly by the elderly and low income families, be classified high density residential, the same classification provided in the current Land Use Plan adopted 10 years ago. The designation allows for the construction of duplexes and apartments.

While developers, apartment building landlords and realtors praised the recommendation, residents of the three neighborhoods had pleaded with the commission to down zone the areas.

A petition bearing the signatures of some 600 residents of the three housing tracts who opposed high density development had been presented to the commission.

The result was that last May the Planning Commission agreed to recommend to the City Council that the neighborhoods be zoned low and low medium residential, assuring a single-family home character for the communities.

Monday night the residents reiterated their positions to the council.

Rose Urbach, who has resided in San Bruno Park 34 years, warned that "increased density only creates greater pollution and crowding in a residential community, both of which should be avoided."

She testified that streets in the three neighborhoods are not wide enough to handle the increased traffic that would be generated by apartment development. She also told how open space "even the size of a small yard or a patio," gives visual relief to areas, which is important to liveability.

Albertina Toschi and Yvonne Gregoire of Lomita Park agreed.

Marjorie Rogers of San Bruno Park added, "Much of the area (east of El Camino) is populated by senior citizens who have lived in their homes for years. We should not be forced into accepting apartment living, which is not conducive to happiness or contentment."

Another east-of-El Camino resident, Jean McGinley, told the council the city needs more people to become involved in the future of San Bruno, and she charged that this involvement is not likely to be found in apartment dwellers.

"It's the people in single-family homes who are the ones who care about the city in which they live," she asserted.

During commission hearings, the residents had argued that a high density use in the three neighborhoods would continue to raise the value of single-family homes in the area and thus force a greater tax load on the already heavily burdened senior citizens.

In a direct reference to the tax problem facing retired persons, Mrs. Rogers stated, "I don't see why we have to be forced out of our homes to satisfy the economic needs of the Chamber of Commerce and Realtors in this city."

Gerald Chandler, executive manager of the Chamber, has stated that he believes high density in the residential neighborhoods would bring business growth to the downtown area.

Alfred Stockton, a San Mateo resident but also a San Bruno businessman for the past 30 years, called on the council to overturn the commission's recommendation and classify the neighborhoods as high density.

He labeled the housing tracts "old town" and warned that the city has a "potential slum" developing in those areas. "The San Bruno Park, Lomita Park and Belle Air neighborhoods are rotting to the core. . . . I see little sign of rejuvenation," Stockton said.

"The old town section of the business community (San Mateo Avenue) is deteriorating and has very little chance now of competing with the new business section of the city," he added.

Stockton charged that the Land Use Plan presented by the Planning Commission "only compounds the errors of the past" by allowing single-family homes to remain near the commercial area and permitting multiple-family units in the hill area miles from downtown.

The president of Active Woman Advancing Responsible Environment (AWARE), Violet Gotelli, called on the council to provide for high-density development so that multiple-family units could be built to meet the housing needs of young persons.

She told how young persons are finding it increasingly difficult to afford single-family homes and are being forced to turn to rental units.

"I think some people are being selfish in their outlook," Mrs. Gotelli said. "Single-family homes are ideal, but they are unrealistic for most young people. San Mateo County is letting its young people down."

And Ralph Corral, who works in construction, commented," Apartment complexes are as much American as apple pie and the hot dog."

The council is expected to allow additional comments from the public at its next meeting.

Any changes the council makes in the document at that meeting must be sent back to the Planning Commission for review.

This was to be a column of commentary on the Bowl Games, but what can one say about the dullest and poorest played group of bowl games in memory? And yours truly has a pretty good memory of more than three decades of bowl games.

What else detracted from the fun was that Woody Hayes didn't get beaten.

Well, there was one thing that impressed me. Here was Georgia keying on Pittsburgh's great running back Tony Dorsett in the Sugar Bowl and, according to the announcers and color men, pretty well containing him. And because they were keying on Dorsett, Pitt quarterback Matt Cavanaugh was able to pass for 192 yards and was named the game's outstanding player in the Pitt 27-3 drubbing.

Yeh, they sure contained Dorsett. Held him to 202 yards rushing, which was a new Sugar Bowl record, the 32nd time he had gone over 200 yards, his 20th consecutive 100 plus yards game, and his 34th overall, breaking the mark of 33 held by Ohio State's Archie Griffin.

Makes one wonder what might have happened to Georgia if they hadn't contained Dorsett.

BOXING NOTES:

It might not be fair to say that Sacramento's middleweight contender, Pete Ranzany, is Northern California's only fight draw, but it would be accurate.

Ranzany fought the four top grossers around here in 1976 (and tops in attendance, too), and eight of the top 10 grossers. Considering he had only 10 fights, that pretty well bears out the above statement.

Billy Mahoney, noted boxing historian and prolific boxing writer for many national magazines, reports that he is currently working on a sale of the life of Lew Jenkins, colorful lightweight champ from 1940-41, to Hollywood for, of course, a movie.

He's never been given official credit for it, but Jack Downey, the long-time boxing official from San Francisco, is directly responsible for starting the nationally known and acclaimed hobby shop at San Quentin.

During Downey's 44 years as a visitor to Q for purposes of referring its boxing matches ("There have been some exceptional boys there, could have made it in the ring on the outside") He's been through three riots and made friends with a lot of hard cases, but he says that the most satisfying prison friendship he's ever had was with a double murderer who inspired the San Quentin hobby shop.

It was about 1938-39, a point in time at Q where virtually everything that could be brought into the prison was considered contraband, even the simplest things. Downey's double-M friend was allowed a small dog as a mascot, and he had hand-crafted for the dog, from the crudest materials and with the crudest tools, a perfect miniature leather saddle. He showed it to Jack, and Downey so admired it that the con told him that he would make one for Jack.

Downey didn't have a dog, so he visited his friend Frankie Carter's bar and asked Frankie if he could have his White Horse booze display, which was, as you connoisseurs of fine spirits may remember, a small white plaster horse. Downey brought the horse back to the con and told him, "Here, fit one to his back."

The con did such a fine job that Downey decided. "This guy needs a little bit of encouragement."

Downey then went to the legendary Warden Clinton Duffy and showed him the saddle and asked him if he, Downey, could get some materials and tools to the double murderer to keep him occupied with creativity rather than destruction. Duffy agreed, but only if any material brought into the prison was first sent directly to Duffy's office.

Downey then went to a leather manufacturing company he knew about on Ninth Street in San Francisco, told the proprietor the story of the double-murderer and the miniature saddle, and asked the man if he could make up an appropriate order of materials and tools and send them to Duffy. The prop was so taken by the story that he refused money from Downey and insisted on donating the entire package.

And that is the story of the beginning of the now famed hobby shop at San Quentin.

LOCAL NOTE:

Don't forget the retirement dinner tomorrow night for Joe McGrath at the United Irish Cultural Center at 2700-45th Ave. in San Francisco.

McGrath, who obviously qualifies for a dinner at an Irish cultural center, has done more than just be Irish for the past three decades in the Jefferson Union High School District, where he has distinguished himself as a teacher in general and a football coach in particular at Jefferson High School.

One of the boys McGrath turned out, a former big lineman who is now a big school superintendent, will be one of the Masters of ceremonies. That, of course, is JUHSD Supt. Floyd Gonella.

If there are still reservations available (remember, we warned you last week), Gary Leahy at Jefferson High School can accommodate you.

The tab is $15 per person, $25 a couple. The price of the ticket includes a roast beef dinner, wine, tax, tip, a gift, and a lot of Irish jokes.

A no-host cocktail party will take place between 6 pm and whatever time the booze runs out. If anybody is interested in dinner at 7 p.m., they may partake.

All friends of Joe NcGrath are invited. And if they can all make it, the organizers are going to wish they had rented the Cow Palace.

MINI FOOTBALL QUIZ OF THE WEEK:

Q: What former Green Bay quarterback later turned announcer said, "Never insult the intelligence of your viewers. If you have nothing to say, shut up."?

A: Pitchin' Paul Christman, who died tragically at age 51 from a heart attack. In my opinion, he was one of the three or four best television football color announcers in broadcast history.

Q: What college coach who compiled a lifetime record of 165-64-8 (including six straight bowl game wins) had the guts to say, "Football should be fun," and kept practices down to 90 minutes?

A: Bobby Dodd, a great Tennessee quarterback who instilled his winning qualities in his powerhouse Georgia Tech teams. Wonder if Woody Hayes ever heard of him?

Q: What did Sleepy Jim Crowley say to Knute Rockne after Rockne yelled at him, "Crowley, is there anything dumber than a dumb Irishman?"

A: "No, sir, unless it's a smart Swede."

Q: Why did Gloomy Gil Dobie, the pessimistic coach of North Dakota State, Washington, Navy, Cornell and Boston College (Lifetime record 179-45-15), who coached four undefeated teams, always keep his practices closed to alumni?

A: "Because," said the football coach with a law degree, "they have big mouths." Could any lawyer have said it more succinctly?

Track and Field

Locals Make Games

By FRED BAER
Post Sports Correspondent

College of San Mateo and Skyline each qualified both of their relay teams during Saturday's trials for the January 21 San Francisco Indoor Games at the Cow Palace.

And, while CSM was competing on the San Jose CC track, the Bulldogs' own oval saw the Millbrae Lions excel in the long jump and sprint medley relay during the women's trials. In the high school competiton at CSM Darryl Jones of Serramonte was a 60 winner and equalled the best time of the day (6.3) while Westmoor was a heat leader in the two-mile relay.

They'll be joined in the Cow Palace by Serra high jumper Dave Khiffin, who equalled his personal best of 6-6 to co-lead the trials (although Tim Gelonek of Redding's Enterprise had fewer misses).

CSM was impressive in winning its mile relay section by two seconds in 3:22.4 with a quartet of Ron Sherrin (50.6), Mike Greggans (50.7), Keith Anderson (51.0) and Bob Foulke (50.1). But Skyline ran even faster in the second section, 3:21.9, in chasing San Jose CC (3:18.7). The Trojans started slowly with Don Freeman (52.5) and Bill LaForge (51.2) but came on with Tony Hicks (48.5) and Alvin Diles (49.7).

All three schools ran together in the sprint medley, San Jose (3:29.2) leading Skyline (3:30.3) — with Hicks running 49.8 and LaForge 1:54.8, and CSM (3:32.6) — with Sherrin (50.1) and Foulke (1:57.4).

A pair of Skyline Grads put San Francisco State into the college division sprint medley at the Cow Palace, Ike Allmond and Ron Hornstra running the final two legs on the 3:40.3 team.

Karen Elmore's 18-3¾ long jump led women's long jump qualifying, with her Millbrae Lion teammates Pam Evans and Gigi Hurley also gaining Cow Palace spots for the 21st.

The Lions were impressive with their sprint medley relay triumph over the San Jose Cindergals (1:47.8 to 1:59.1) with Elaine Parker, Elmore, Kelia Bolton and Marian Franklin. Parker, an Oceana High student and Bolton (a former Oceana student now at Andrew Hill) ran second and fourth, respectively, in the 60 qualifying to defending champ Freida Cobbs of the Berkeley Track Club and will get another shot at her in the Cow Palace.

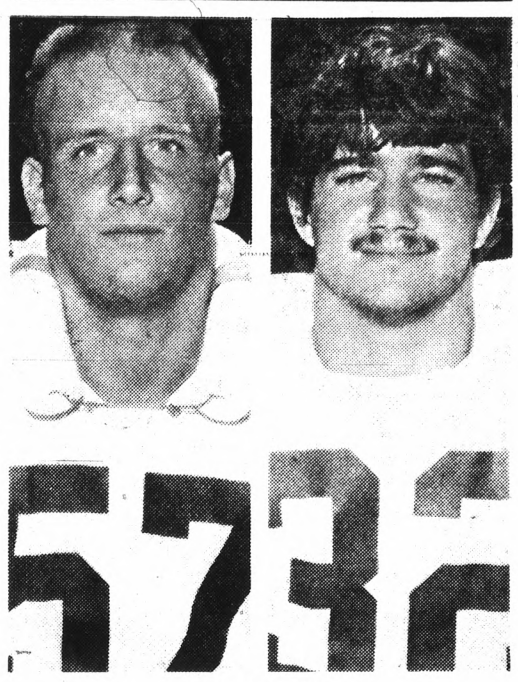
Westmoor won its section of the two-mile relay in 8:15.2 with Eric Sausjord, Kevin Fuller, Rick Baldocchi and Jeff Maxwell, but Pinole Valley was the overall leader with an 8:14.2 in the other heat.

Jones won his heat of the 60 in 6.3 and then took his semi in 6.5 to make it to the Cow Palace.

CSM had standouts in exhibition events too, Mitch Kingery romping to a 9:15.4 two mile win, Gordon Bliss winning a 60-yard high hurdle section in 7.7, Mike Smith putting the shot 51-7 for second to San Jose's Dave Laut (53-5½) and Bob Dillard high jumping 6-4 (for fourth). Skyline's Ray Smith won another hurdle section in 7.6.

Stanford track coach Payton Jordan paced the master's (over 60) 60-yard-dash trials as usual (7.1) and will duel Senator Alan Cranston indoors. A local high school coach, Dave Robertson, ran a 4:17.9 mile to qualify sixth for the novel devil-take-the-hindmost mile.

And, in the women's master's (over 40) mile Carroll O'Conner of Belmont was second in 6:02.5 to San Francisco's Jeanie Karper-Jones (5:51.0), with Ruth Waters of San Carlos fifth (6:19.3).



ALL STARS

Two former Terra Nova High School students — Kevin McBride (left) and Dave Matas — have been selected from the Menlo College football squad for the 1976 Coast Conference all-star first team. McBride is a 6' 3", 205-pound center; Matas a running back who was named to an honorable mention spot on the all-star team. This is the second year that McBride has been named to the honor team.

Magnificent Obsession

Arnie Robinson Must Win

By DICK DRAPER
Post Sports Writer

Arnie Robinson is a man obsessed.

He wants to win. He must win. He must prove to everyone who is the greatest long jumper of all time (him, of course), a man who can look pressure and competition and gold medals and world records in the face and be smug and cool — and win.

But even with the gold medal he won in Montreal, even with the 14 leaps he has had over 27 feet, the 28-year-old Robinson still feels he is looked upon as just another "good" jumper. Not the best. Not an athlete kids and peers and track buffs will talk about for years, see his picture or watch him on the street and whisper, 'Yeah, that's Arnie — he's the best.'

Not yet.

Something still sticks in Robinson's craw; something very difficult to swallow.

Bob Beamon's Magical, Mystical, Wondrous leap of 29 feet, 2 ½ inches set in 1968 at the Mexico City Olympics, called track and field's finest moment.

THAT'S what irks Robinson. Something that must be all but exorcised from his competitive soul.

And when the Southern Californian competes in the San Francisco Indoor Games at the Cow Palace in Daly City on Jan. 21, Beamon will — as he is always — be in Robinson's mind.

"I want to be the first to get 28 feet," said Robinson. "I'm sick of people saying Beamon was the best because of that 29-foot jump. Under the conditions, I think my 27-5 at Montreal is as good as 28 or 29.

"I was up against a headwind there, while Beamon had a two mile-per-hour wind at his back. That makes a difference — not much, but still a difference. Plus the altitude."

Robinson was not hot under the collar. But it pains him nevertheless to be categorized as among the best in the world. But only "among."

"You could say it's an obsession for me now — to win, and to get that 28 or 29 feet. But to do it I must have somebody pushing me," said Robinson, who will fight it out with silver medalist Randy Williams in the Daly City show.

"I could hit 26-5 and win easily against anybody, but I like competition. I hate to lose. I'm not aggressive at all in other aspects of life, but when I'm competing I have a tremendous desire to win.

"I know," Robinson said, "that anybody can lose — but only a few can win."

And win in the 28-foot range, something no one has ever done before (Beamon was still in the air at 28 feet).

"To me," said Robinson with deadly seriousness, "a 28-foot jump means more to me than an Olympic gold medal. To a lot of people a gold medal is everything, but not to me. I'm only halfway satisfied now. The 28-foot jump still has more significance."

The Indoor Games will feature an array of gold medalists, including controversial Mac Wilkins in the shot put, vying against heavyweights Terry Albritton (71-8 ½ outdoors) and Al Feuerbach (71-7 ½ outdoors) plus San Jose State's Ron Semkiw (70-0 ½).

The sprint field is also spectacular, with Olympic 200-meter gold medalist Don Quarrie from Jamaica heading a list which includes Hasely Crawford of Trinidad and world's fastest human title claimant Steve Williams. Gold medalist (relay) Millard Hampton is also in the field, and 1972 double gold medalist Valeriy Borzov of the Soviet Union and bronze medalist Dwayne Evans have been invited.

Tickets for the meet, which starts at 6:30 p.m. with non-invitational events, are priced at $7, $6 and $5. Bay Area ticket outlets include Macy's Ticketron (Sears and Wards), BASS, Emporium-Capwell's and the Cow Palace.

Skyline and Menlo Victories

Both Skyline and Menlo Colleges increased their Coast Conference basketball records to 2-0 with one-sided but possibly costly victories on the road Saturday night.

Skyline ran past Monterey Peninsula, 85-69, but soph Jim Donovan found his knee lock at the outset of the game. A late-night analysis at Peninsula Hospital was inconclusive, but Trojan coach Lyle Newcomer was worried there could be a stress fractured bone in the upper knee.

Menlo had an even easier time of it with Gavilan, 91-67, but saw soph guard Mike Stockwell from San Mateo injure his hip falling while coming down with a rebound. His immediate future status is also unknown.

Skyline at least has a bye Wednesday, while Menlo finally comes home to host Ohlone (0-1) at 7:30 p.m. Skyline hosts Gavilan Saturday night.

Skyline got 43 points from guard Dave Davis Saturday. The 6-2 frosh from Pasadena hit on 17 of 25 from the field, but missed Frank Denucci's school record of 48 points set last year against Cabrillo.

The Trojans ran off to early leads of 28-9 and 38-16 but MPC did come back to within eight points in the second half. Soph frontliner Mark Felix had his best offensive night in several weeks, scoring 17 points for Skyline.

Menlo dominated the boards and ran away from Gavilan at the outset too. Center Steve Trobbe, with 23 points, and forward Butch Treadwell, with 21, paced the Oaks.

Menlo hit nearly 60 per cent from the field (35 of 59).

IT WAS WET ONCE

A large sandbar dries in the sun over what used to be a channel at the mouth of Pescadero Creek. The blocked runoff from Pescadero Creek is in the foreground, as seen looking east from the beach toward the Cabrillo Highway bridge at Pescadero State Beach.

Rains Came to Stay and Kill Crops

By JOHN CURRY

Last year's drought now is killing in a different way.

Pescadero is feeling the new threat now, after the season's first major rainstorm. The dust is being replaced by a growing lake of water that threatens to inundate all the the fields in its path and then the town of Pescadero itself.

Because rainfall has been so sparse, the runoff from Pescadero Creek hasn't been sufficient the past year to prevent the ocean tides from piling up an 11-foot sand barrier across the creek mouth at Pescadero State Beach.

A state Division of Forestry emergency crew spent much of Sunday night bulldozing the barrier to sea level to prevent Sunday's storm rains from flooding Pescadero.

The crew succeeded, but the relentless ocean has again sealed the creek mouth.

At least two farmers fear another storm as they watch their crops die under a sheet of brackish salt water, while government officials from Redwood City to Sacramento haggle over who does what at the state beach and how much money should be spent.

As much as 80 acres of prime agricultural land now is under water at the Ed Campinotti and Tom Phipps spreads along Water Lane in Pescadero.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," a distraught Campinotti said Wednesday. "The water is 300 feet from my house. Three-fourths of my 43 acres is under water and may be lost.

"The state should clear the beach, but you have to go through all kinds of agencies and they have to get all kinds of permits," he said.

"What if it rains tonight? The water (in the marsh) is two feet above normal now. If we get another storm like Sunday it might flood out the town," Campinotti said.

County Disaster Office Director William C. Hinchcliffe agreed with Campinotti's assessment of the hazard, noting that another storm like Sunday's, which dumped some four inches of rain on the area, would do it.

County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald picked up the ball Tuesday, contacting Herbert Rhodes, formerly of San Mateo County and now state Parks and Recreation Department director, about what to do.

A tentative plan reportedly emerged to have a state bulldozer cut the sand bar, now about three feet above water level, at low tide Wednesday, but the bulldozer failed to appear at the scene.

Beaches and Parks Ranger Roger Werts said from his Francis Beach office in Half Moon Bay that he knew of no such arrangements. It's his job, he said, to approve such work on the beach, but that his department has no responsibility "in any way" for any beach work in anything less than an emergency such as Sunday's.

"I'm in a gray area of having no authority to spend money," Hinchcliffe said. "If this were a real emergency now, I'd spend whatever was needed, but without the emergency my hands are tied."

But while officials work things out, Campinotti and Phipps have their own crews at Pescadero Beach, manning shovels. How much that would help is questionable, Hinchcliffe pointed out, because what is needed is a deep, permanent channel.

Campinotti pointed out that what formerly was a deep channel to the creek's mouth now is a shallows, with sand spits protruding from it.

"And the channel is filled clear back to the bridge," he said, pointing to the Cabrillo Highway span 50 yards from the sand barrier.

Perhaps worst for the crops, besides drowning, is the salt water intrusion problem. The drought resulted in low or nonexistent fresh water tables, as exemplified by dry wells and reservoirs. But the ocean's salt water has filled in the void and much of the Pescadero Creek marsh now backed up is heavily contaminated with salt.

Agricultural Extension Service Coordinator Hank Sciaroni in Half Moon Bay said the major harm, besides the loss of this year's crops, would be the ruining of the land for the next three years.

"The water table would have to be pumped down and the land leached (irrigated to clean out the salt)" before it would grow crops again, he pointed out.

Phipps said he has 50 acres of artichokes and shallots (an onion and garlic relative) under water. Campinotti's crop is artichokes.

LOOKING FOR HELP

Ed Campinotti stands just inside a sand barrier, with the surf breaking behind him. The sand has cut off the mouth of Pescadero Creek and caused flooding of his and neighbor Tom Phipps' fields in Pescadero.

Fish Is Heart Food

Using Stress-Reducing Foods

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

"Learn to savor food," is one of the rules for cutting down on stress, Drs. Meyer Friedman and Ray Roseman advise overly tense business people in their book, "A Type A Behavior and Your Heart."

When your taste buds call your attention to something exceptionally good to eat, it's entirely possible that you will forget about worrisome happenings at the office or market place. Food which you eat with appetite and in a relaxed state is likely to be better for you. "Now good digestion wait on appetite and health on both," is the way Shakespeare put it.

Salmon Loaf topped with Quick Tangy Cream Sauce is an appetizing main dish. A measure of Worcestershire sauce, minced onion, parsley and lemon juice give the loaf excellent flavor. The Cream Sauce is stirred up and served hot on a hot loaf or cold on a chilled one.

SALMON LOAF

1 can (15½ oz.) salmon, drained and flaked
2 cups soft bread crumbs
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
4 eggs lightly beaten
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Quick Tangy Cream Sauce

In a large bowl combine the drained and flaked salmon, two cups bread crumbs, fourth cup each chopped onion and chopped parsley, four eggs lightly beaten, one tablespoon each Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice, three-fourths teaspoon salt and two tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Stir until well mixed. Spoon into a buttered 8½ x 4½ x 2½-inch loaf pan; spread smooth. Bake in preheated moderate oven until knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 45 minutes. Let stand for 5 minutes before unmolding onto platter. Serve hot or cold with Quick Tangy Cream Sauce.

QUICK TANGY CREAM SAUCE

½ cup mayonnaise
8 cup milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon salt

Combine the half cup mayonnaise, third cup milk, two teaspoons lemon juice, one teaspoon each prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce and eighth teaspoon salt. In a medium saucepan heat gentle just until sauce is hot (do not boil). Serve hot over hot Salmon Loaf. If desired, combine all ingredients and serve cold Salmon Loaf. Makes about ¾ cup.

SSF Buildings Topic of Session

South San Francisco's on-again, off-again public safety facility and other city building needs will be the focus of a City Council study session at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Director of Public Services Frank Addiego said the meeting will be informal — without an agenda — and will be an opportunity for the council and citizens to ask questions.

"We're hoping to get a good analysis of the problems and some kind of direction which way they want us to move," Addiego said.

The council has been grappling with the need for a police and fire department facility since 1973.

Voters turned down a proposition to finance a $4.5 million facility in 1974 but the council established a nonprofit corporation and prepared to build it anyway.

A resident, however, challenged the legality of the financing method and sued the city. The new council rescinded the plans entirely in June.

Since then, the council has been trying to decide what to do with its aging police building, where to house Fire Department administrative personnel who say they are dangerously overcrowded.

Woman's Body Found in Car

The body of a 57-year-old Daly City woman was found early Saturday at the wheel of her car, which had driven up an embankment on San Bruno Mountain probably a few hours earlier.

Brisbane police said the woman apparently had had some sort of a seizure at the wheel of her car and was dead before it veered across the roadway and up the embankment.

The woman, identified as Evelyn Gandolfi, 57, lived at 98 Valley St. in Daly City with her son, Frank, according to reports.

An off-duty Brisbane police officer, Eugene Ricca, was driving about 5:45 a.m. Saturday on Guadalupe Canyon Road when he noticed the car and stopped to check.

Police said when Ricci found the body, the woman had been dead for some time, probably two or three hours.

She was driving westbound on Guadalupe Canyon Road toward Daly City, according to police, when, suddenly, about a half mile west of Radio Road at a point where the mountain slopes abruptly upward on both sides, her car veered into the eastbound lane. Police said it drove up the embankment on the east side of the road and came to a stop.

Lutheran Leader Resigns

By JOHN HORGAN

The president of the California-Nevada District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod has announced his resignation.

The Rev. Paul Jacobs of Belmont said that he will resign from his office as of Jan. 31.

He has held the position, equivalent to that of a bishop, for over 17 years.

He is quitting in large measure because of a deep split within the troubled Lutheran church.

The synod has been divided by a theological argument between moderates and conservatives for the last several years.

Several district presidents have already been removed from office in other parts of the country.

Others, like the Rev. Jacobs, have been ordered to conform to the orders of the synod's president, Dr. Jacob A.O. Preus of St. Louis.

The Rev. Jacobs said he has been wrestling with his personal decision to leave for months. It has been complicated by health problems. He is suffsring from cancer. —

"As you can imagine," he said, "such a decision did not come lightly nor was it made easily."

He has been asked to assume the leadership of the Pacific Regional Synod of the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, a splinter group which has born out of the Missouri synod's strife.

He said he has not yet determined whether he will accept that position. He has been offered the post of presiding bishop, with headquarters in San Francisco.

The new regional body covers the 11 western states. Eleven congregations have already joined the Pacific Regional Synod. None is from San Mateo County.

The Rev. Jacobs said he is quitting his current posi-

Cliff Leap Kills MV Woman in DC

A Mountain View woman committed suicide Friday afternoon by jumping off a cliff above the ocean in Daly City, police officials have reported.

She was identified as 21-year-old Teressa Cocco of 1802 Villa Place.

Police reported that witnesses said she parked her car near a church at 50 Northridge Drive and walked down and stood on a cliff below the church.

Then, the witnesses said, she jumped, bouncing off the cliff several times before her body came to rest 450 feet below.

Police said rescue efforts were hampered by the steepness of the cliff and police said she was dead when police and firemen were able to reach her.

Police said a Coast Guard helicopter carried the body off the cliff. The victim was taken to Mary's Help Hospital, police said.

Daly City police officials said a suicide note was found in the woman's car.

SSF Okays Jobs

Seven temporary positions funded by a $35,688 Public Works Employment Act grant have been approved by the South San Francisco City Council.

Councilman Terry Mirri voted against the appropriation, saying he believes at least 25 per cent of the funds should have been used for so-called "field positions."

Instead, the funds have been earmarked for positions based in City Hall.

The approved positions include purchasing clerk, $5,760; a Police Department property clerk, $5,600; a Finance Department account clerk, $6,250; a part-time legal assistant for the city attorney, $5,000; a part-time custodian, $1,558; a Planning Department typist-clerk, $5,760; and a Fire Department typist-clerk, $5,760.

Assistant City Manager Mike Wilson said the temporary employes will work until June. Six of the positions previously were filled by CETA employes, a federal program terminated in the city in November.

Wilson said he expects the city will receive an additional $45,000 during the next nine months to extend the employment period.

Director of Public Services Frank Addiego said all department heads were consulted about the availability of the funds.

for field personnel, Addiego said.

The Public Works Department received two new regular employes in the 1976-77 budget, the sewage treatment plant is adequately staffed and the fire and police department chiefs preferred clerical help to field personnel, he said.

"In our opinion, this is the best position to place these people in," he said.

Mirri, however, said there are a lot of people who can't type who are out of a job.

He vowed to remember when budget requests stack up again this year that department heads turned down an opportunity for field personnel.

"I hope no more people are asked for," Mirri said. Every year, he pointed out, there are requests for maintenance workers and other personnel who work outside City Hall.

Addiego said there is no assurance that those requests will not be made again this year. Those positions are just not priorities now, he said.

Mirri moved that 25 per cent of the funds be used for field personnel. His motion failed on a 2-2 vote, with Councilman William Borba voting with Mirri.

Another motion approving the program as Wilson presented it was passed 3-1, this time with only Mirri dissenting.

In other business, the council increased gasoline reimbursement for employes using their own cars for city business from 10 cents to 15 cents a mile.

It also approved a new schedule of dog impound fees: $10 for the first offense, $20 the second, and $30 for the third and fourth. Councilman Dick Battaglia objected, saying that the fees should be higher.

tion for a number of reasons.

He listed them in a letter to his board of directors as follows:

• "Firstly, there is a growing Synodical Administration legalism which is frustrating and hindering the Gospel in the lives of the members."

• "Secondly, the exclusion of people who disagree with Synodical policy and oppose it, not only on the part of administrators, but also on the part of many members who felt that either you 'conform or get out'."

• "Thirdly, the interference of the Synodical Administration in the life and decision-making process of the congregations..."

• "Fourthly, the endless rulings of the Commission on Constitutional Matters that are produced to back up Synodical Administration policy and so get rid of all who disagree."

• "Fifthly, in the manipulation of people and conventions of the Synod, the power of politics and defamation of character have been so much in evidence as to make the Missouri Synod incredible to the eyes of the world."

• "Sixthly, in the last seven years, divisions and offenses have destroyed the unity of the faith which the Synod once had in a very large measure."

The Rev. Jacobs added that, "There has been a concerted attempt to set the laity against the clergy through numerous unofficial periodicals condoned by the Synodical Administration..."

He said individuals in leadership positions in the Missouri church will have to leave that body if they switch into the new synod.

Said he, "Every congregation in the district must undertake a purge of its elected officers and perhaps begin disciplinary proceedings against any of its members who may have joined AELC."

As a final word, he told his directors:

"A new life lies ahead for the church today, and that is fresh and alive with the spirit of the mission affirmation. Therefore, I call upon this board to help congregations who are so minded to leave the Synod, since they cannot in good conscience continue to function in their ministry under the present Synodical Administration, with a peaceful release so that there be no bitterness among us."

County's School Board Candidates Are Listed

A total of 128 candidates had filed for 61 contested trustee positions in 24 San Mateo County school districts and the County Board of Education in the March 8 consolidated election by the 5 p.m. deadline Friday.

County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church said the number of candidates is a record in the eight years he has been in office, and probably in the county's history.

The only school districts without contests are Belmont, San Carlos and Woodside. The Bayshore School District has no contest for the three four-year term postions, but has two candidates for the single terms expiring March 31, 1979.

Church said that in the districts with no contests, the incumbents or nonopposed candidates will be appointed "in lieu" of election.

In the case of the Woodside School District, with three positions at stake, only two persons filed. Church said that the school board will appoint someone to succeed August H. Schilling II, who did not file for re-election.

Including the districts where there are no elections, there were a total of 138 persons who filed as candidates. In Redwood City, where only one incumbent is seeking re-election, there are 10 candidates for three positions on the board of trustees.

Extends TV Franchise

Vista Grande was given a one-year extension of its franchise by the City Council of Daly City last week following a public hearing that has spanned the past two months.

City Atty. Albert Polonsky told the council the cable television company had repeatedly violated its agreement with the city in the past. He strongly recommended a tighter policy be maintained to insure that the company live up to its agreement.

In the face of this criticism, Vista Grande's attorney, Thomas Renk, asked the council to consider a rate hike for the company.

Apparently, the impact of Renk's request did not register because neither council members nor city staff dwelled on the suggestion.

Instead, Polonsky continued his presentation to the council by pointing up the fact that it is "not a question of what is going on now, (the) question is whether a good maintenance and service program will continue."

Vista Grande's service and maintenance program had come under fire from customers and city staff in the past.

However, in recent months, complaints against Vista Grande had slackened, records indicate.

Polonsky said he thinks the council's strict supervision of the company is responsible for this changeabout.

Polonsky pressed for a local office, noting that Daly City is the county's second largest city and "people here should have an office they can take their complaints to."

Councilman William Schumacher charged the company was "mismanged," but he admitted he had no alternative to revocation of the company's television permit.

"There is no prompt solution," he said.

Mayor Anthony Giammona, one of the company's most vociferous critics, suggested that a "no show" penalty be invoked against the company if service crews fail to keep appointments with patrons.

Fire Sweeps Home Sunday in Millbrae

Fire of undetermined origin swept through the Millbrae home of John Ellcessor, 279 Aviador Ave., shortly after 5 p.m. Sunday.

Firemen said they were told Ellcessor had been asleep on a couch in the living room while his wife visited neighbors.

She returned and found the house full of smoke, awakened her husband and got him out, firemen report.

When the fire engines arrived, the house was 70 per cent involved in flames, they said.

Before the fire could be extinguished a major portion of the home had been devoured by flames.

There were no reported injuries.
